Axxess Releases White Paper: *How Home Health Agencies Can Survive in an Evolving Marketplace

DALLAS (April 22, 2015) - Axxess, an industry leader in home health management software -- also the only software vendor accredited by the American Nursing Credentialing Center - has released a white paper aimed at helping home health agencies understand the importance of adopting the right software to remain competitive in an evolving industry.

“We want to help home health agencies navigate the current environment of new and changing regulations, increased competition and declining reimbursements - all of which impact the financial stability of agencies,” said John Olajide, President and CEO of Axxess. “Our goal is to help them streamline their operations and increase profitability so they can grow their businesses.”

The Axxess white paper Keeping Your Agency Competitive in an Evolving Marketplace with the Right Home Health Software helps agencies understand how a comprehensive software solution can alleviate current and future challenges including:

- Roll-out of a pay-for-performance model
- Passing audits conducted by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS)
- Improving patient outcomes
- Efficiently and profitably managing the revenue cycle
- Transitioning to ICD-10-CM coding
- Building a diversified portfolio of health services and payer sources

Surviving and thriving in the ever-evolving home health marketplace will continue to be challenging for home health agencies. An operator that adopts an automated, integrated software solution to manage every aspect of the agency business will be best prepared to prosper financially, improve patient outcomes and reduce risks involved with audits.
