Axxess Honored Among Modern Healthcare's 2018 "Best Places to Work"

Home Healthcare Technology Leader Recognized for Third Consecutive Year

DALLAS, May 30, 2018 – Axxess, the fastest-growing home healthcare technology company, has been recognized again as one of Modern Healthcare's 2018 "Best Places to Work in Healthcare." This marks the third consecutive year that Axxess has earned the distinction.

Axxess prides itself on having a culture that attracts the very best people to help the company become the most successful global healthcare technology leader that is also the most admired for its people, partnerships and solutions. To achieve this, Axxess cultivates a collaborative work environment that promotes innovation and entrepreneurship to exceed client expectations. Employees are supported with team-building activities, and a variety of perks like weekly catered lunches to build a positive atmosphere where employees can thrive.

"Our employees are our most valuable asset and an award like this is a reflection of that," said John Olajide, founder and CEO of Axxess. "We work every day to create a culture that our employees love so that they can deliver their very best work."

Modern Healthcare is the leader in healthcare business news, research and data. Each year the magazine recognizes employers who rank among the best of the best. The results are based on anonymous employee surveys. An awards dinner to recognize this year's winners will be held in Dallas on September 27.
