DALLAS, Tex., and OMAHA, Ne., January 17, 2019 – Axxess the fastest-growing home healthcare technology company, has selected WorldView as its preferred partner to deliver content management solutions for its more than 2,000 clients. Axxess expects to integrate WorldView’s capabilities into its complete suite of home health, home care and hospice solutions over the next several months and have WorldView’s capabilities available later this year.

“WorldView’s in-depth approach with its content management services, and focus on finding new ways to apply these advancing technologies, makes them a great choice as we continue to build new partnerships to benefit our clients,” said John Olajide, Axxess’ founder and Chief Executive Officer. “I have no doubt this new venture with WorldView will have an impact on the home healthcare industry.”

“We couldn’t be more excited about this new initiative with Axxess, and have already been wowed by their team’s mindset of constant innovation,” said Matthew Moore, President of WorldView Ltd. “With our client-first approach, the natural synergies between our companies can help this partnership provide significant added value to Axxess clients.”

The integration of Axxess and WorldView capabilities will enable an exchange of client data and documentation not previously available. The expected solution will be customizable through workflows that can eliminate the administrative burden placed on agencies to maintain compliance.
